SPECIAL EDITION: DRAMA AND POETRY
APRIL 1, 2003

All the World's a Stage (<http://www.marcopolo-education.org/MarcoGrams/Apr2003.html>)

Personal feelings and emotions are expressed in many different forms, but none are as heartfelt as poetry or as heart-wrenching as a live performance on stage. MarcoPolo is featuring lessons and resources on two forms of personal expression -- poetry and drama - in conjunction with National Poetry Month and the 439th anniversary of William Shakespeare's birthday. Use the warm-up activities below to help students explore, organize, and communicate their thoughts through expressive poems or dramatic skits. Then scroll down for links to additional lessons and resources.
